

DaVita Educates Patients to Help Keep Them Safe during COVID-19 Pandemic

Kidney care company supports patients with award-winning education and daily updates

DENVER, May 4, 2020 /PRNewswire/ -- DaVita Kidney Care shares its COVID-19 patient education on DaVita.com/COVID. DaVita, known for delivering award-winning, multimedia kidney disease education, has invested in developing comprehensive COVID-19 education for dialysis patients, one of the most at-risk populations. During a time of uncertainty and change, these resources are empowering patients and helping to keep them safe.

"This is a distressing and overwhelming time for dialysis patients, and DaVita is working hard to help patients feel informed, supported and cared about," said Martha Wofford, group vice president for DaVita Kidney Care. "Some of our patients face significant health literacy challenges and creating educational materials, like animated videos, that they can easily understand is critical to empowering patients to stay safe."

DaVita is keeping patients informed about COVID-19 through communications and educational resources in 14 different languages across multiple channels and media, including video. The resources cover topics such as what COVID-19 is, what DaVita is doing to help keep patients safe, how patients can avoid hazards outside of the home and dialysis center and what patients can do to help keep themselves and their families healthy.

In addition to website content, other patient touch points include:

- DaVita care team members and physicians speaking directly to patients
- Educational handouts and posters inside DaVita centers
- Animated videos that seek to explain complex and important topics related to COVID-19 in an easy to understand way, such as how to properly wear a mask, and help overcome health literacy challenges
- Informative letters and educational materials sent to patients' homes
- Patient hotline that patients can call and get answers to their COVID-19 questions
- Use of telehealth platform, DaVita Care Connect, to communicate safely and remotely with patients treating at home
- Publication of resources and answers to questions related to COVID-19 on DaVita's social media channels

When asked about DaVita's COVID-19 education, John Harris, a DaVita patient from Littleton, Colorado, said, "All the education I've received has made me feel safe and calmed my worries and concerns. Between the handouts and conversations with the staff, I feel very informed on the situation. I really appreciate the precautions DaVita is taking to help keep us safe."

DaVita continues to solicit and pay close attention to patient feedback on how the company can enhance its communications and better support patients during this unprecedented time.
