Becker's reviewed nomination letters and conducted editorial research to develop this year's list. Editors then segmented companies by category. DaVita is the only designated "health care provider" on the 2014 Great Places to Work in Healthcare list.

Editors cited DaVita University's award-winning leadership, professional development and personal enrichment programs and the various health and wellness initiatives available to teammates as key examples of DaVita's differentiated workplace.

"We are committed to creating a health care community that challenges and fulfills our teammates and recognizes their exceptional contributions," said Javier Rodriguez, CEO of DaVita Kidney Care. "Being recognized by Becker's as a great place to work in health care affirms our beliefs that investing in teammates leads to a differentiated workplace, which drives better patient care."

DaVita's unique workplace has received a number of awards this year, including WorldBlu's Most Democratic Workplaces, Top Workplaces-Colorado and Top Workplaces-Bay Area. Additionally, DaVita is consistently ranked as one of the most military-friendly workplaces in the United States.

DaVita joins Children's Hospital Colorado, Craig Hospital, Rose Medical Center and Vail Valley Medical Center as the only companies on the list based in Colorado.
