

DaVita Provides Disclosures Regarding Charitable Premium Assistance

DENVER, Oct. 10, 2017 /PRNewswire/ -- DaVita Kidney Care, a division of DaVita Inc. (NYSE: DVA), a leading provider in kidney care services, today provided disclosures regarding charitable premium assistance.

Dialysis Patients and Charitable Premium Assistance

Dialysis patients across the US access charitable premium assistance in a government-designed system that has been in place for decades. The intentional support of the system includes the acceptance of provider funding in an explicit advisory opinion from the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) Office of Inspector General (OIG).

Many of the beneficiaries of this assistance are unable to continue working full-time as a result of their severe condition. Charitable premium assistance enables these patients to afford continuity of health insurance coverage that they have had for years, at a time when they need it most. Assistance is based on financial need and available regardless of the type of insurance chosen by the patient, or the dialysis provider serving the patient. Across healthcare, charitable assistance is available to patients suffering from a variety of other high-cost, chronic diseases.

DaVita Patient Benefit

Currently less than 13% of DaVita's US dialysis patients – or about 25,000 patients – receive support from the American Kidney Fund (AKF). Of these,

- Approximately 1,800 patients receive charitable premium assistance for individual coverage, including both on- and off-Exchange plans. The majority of these patients came to DaVita with their plan already in place and simply seek to maintain coverage they had before they became ill. DaVita believes that more than half of these patients would utilize premium tax credits and cost-sharing reductions, or find other sources of funding, to maintain their coverage even if charitable premium assistance were no longer available to them. The loss of individual coverage for some or all of the remaining patients could, as previously disclosed, result in a reduction in expected annual operating income of $45-90M.
- Approximately 4,000 patients receive charitable premium assistance for commercial group coverage, i.e., employer group plans and COBRA plans, to maintain continuity of coverage from prior to the ESRD diagnosis. These patients account for a total of approximately $450M of DaVita's expected annual operating income. Even if charitable premium assistance were to become unavailable to these patients – which DaVita does not expect to happen – DaVita believes that some of these patients would find other ways to fund their insurance premium and retain their coverage.
- Nearly 80% of recipients, or approximately 19,000 patients, receive charitable premium assistance for government coverage, such as Medicare Part B and Medicare Supplemental Plans. Average reimbursement per treatment for these patients is at or below DaVita's average cost per treatment. Without charitable premium assistance, DaVita believes that many of these patients would be forced onto state Medicaid programs or be uninsured.

Risks and Mitigation

DaVita believes that charitable premium assistance will not be taken from dialysis patients, due to its benefit for patients and its importance to the entire dialysis system.

Charitable assistance has been a long-standing component of this system, and the share of patients receiving such assistance has been stable for many years. Charitable assistance is not only beneficial for individual patients who are able to retain coverage they could otherwise not afford, but also is in the interest of society overall, supporting continuity of coverage and access to care for the most vulnerable individuals.

DaVita's view is that private insurers are not unfairly burdened by dialysis charitable assistance, as some have asserted. In fact, in a feature that is unique to ESRD, private insurers receive massive government subsidies in the form of a) the near-universal Medicare eligibility for ESRD patients and b) the 30-month limitation on their obligation to remain the primary insurer. These two subsidies to commercial insurers – one of which uniquely restricts ESRD patients' freedom of choice – far outweigh the benefit of charitable premium assistance to providers.

If charitable assistance were materially restricted, a large number of dialysis centers across the country would no longer be economically viable. This would disproportionately affect centers serving patients with the greatest financial need. DaVita believes that policymakers would take action to prevent such destabilization. Policy changes could include lengthening the 30-month Medicare coordination period, limiting or delaying eligibility for Medicare coverage, subsidizing COBRA coverage, and raising the Medicare reimbursement rate.

Finally, the importance of ensuring continuity of coverage and access to care is increasingly recognized across all of US healthcare. For example, a bipartisan group of 184 members of Congress sent a letter to the HHS Secretary urging the agency to protect charitable assistance.

Together with patient advocacy groups and other providers, DaVita will continue to advocate for the important principles of patient choice, non-discrimination, continuity of coverage, and access to care for our patients.
